Uricinex Review For Gout Relief

Diet is one of the strongest factors causing unhealthy uric acid levels in the body. Gout is an extremely painful rheumatic disease. It is caused by excess deposits of uric acid in the form of needle like crystal in the connective tissue and joints. The deposits of uric acid cause inflammation of the joints and hence gout is caused.

Other gout symptoms in which gout manifests itself are swelling of joints, redness and inflammation and stiffness in joints. Gout is a type of arthritis and is responsible for about 5% cases of arthritis. Once Uric acid crystallizes in various joints, most often the big toe this can cause sharp shooting pain which can ultimately lead to severe pain to the patient. Uric acid is released due to the breakdown of purines in the body and is present in various tissues in the human body besides foods like anchovies, liver, green beans and peas.
